

What Sikhs Believe

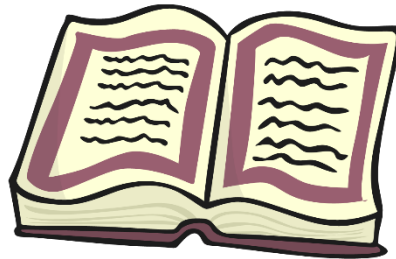

Sikhs believe that there is only one God. They only worship and pray to the one God.

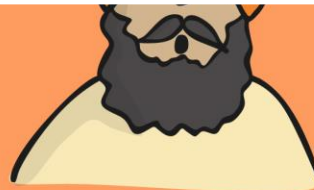

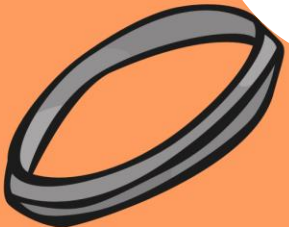

They believe that different religions are all paths to the same God. All humans are children of the same God.

Everyone is equal in God's eyes everyone should be treated equally.

A stylized illustration of a red and white patterned rug, possibly a Persian or Turkish rug, featuring a central medallion and a border. The rug is shown in a slightly curved, draped position.

A cartoon illustration of a man with a long white beard and a yellow turban. He is wearing a green robe over a yellow shirt. He is holding a string of beads in his right hand. The background is orange.

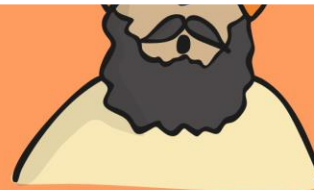

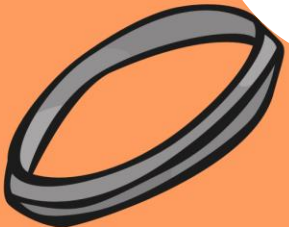

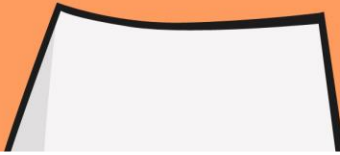

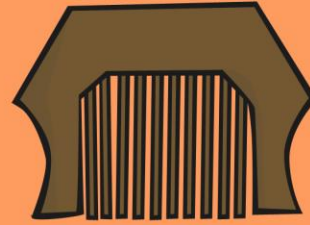

Sikhs believe they should follow the four commands

1. Do not dishonour the creator's intention by cutting your hair.
2. Do not harm the body with tobacco or other intoxicants.
3. Do not eat sacrificial meat.
4. Do not commit adultery.

A cartoon illustration of an elderly Sikh man with a long white beard and mustache. He is wearing a yellow turban with a black band and a green robe over a yellow shirt. He is holding a string of prayer beads (mala) in his right hand, which is raised towards his chest. The background is white with a yellow border.

- Sikhs believe they should follow the four commands
1. Do not dishonour the creator's intention by cutting your hair.
 2. Do not harm the body with tobacco or other intoxicants.
 3. Do not eat sacrificial meat.
 4. Do not commit adultery.
-
- A cartoon illustration of an elderly Sikh man with a long white beard and mustache. He is wearing a yellow turban with a black band and a green robe over a yellow shirt. He is holding a string of prayer beads (mala) in his right hand, which is raised towards his chest. The background is white with a yellow border.

The End

