Handprint Wreath

Supplies

- Green and red paint
- Paintbrush
- Green card
- Green paper
- Ribbon
- Scissors
- Pencil
- PVA glue

1 First, create the main ring for the wreath. To do this, draw around a large circular object onto the green card. Then, place a smaller circular object into the middle of the circle and draw around this. Cut out the middle and trim around the outside leaving a ring shape.

4 Then, stick the handprints onto the wreath using PVA glue. Place them so that the fingers are facing outwards and they overlap slightly.

2 Next, create the handprints for the wreath. To do this, use the paintbrush to cover your hand in green paint. Then, gently press your hand down onto the other sheets of paper. Repeat several times, so that there are enough handprints to go all around the wreath. Make sure that the handprints don't overlap. Leave to dry.

5 Now, add some red berries to your wreath! To do this, dip the tip of your finger into the red paint, then carefully print onto the wreath.

3 Once dry, cut out the handprints.

6 Finally, attach a length of ribbon around the top of the wreath, tying the ends together to create a loop for the wreath to be hung by.
